

Ensure Effective Post-Discharge Care and Minimize Readmissions

Proactively arrange patient follow-ups within seven days post-hospitalization

Patients transitioning from hospital to home require careful follow up to prevent readmissions. Recognizing this critical phase, we have developed a proactive Transitional Care Services (TCS) program. Our goal is straightforward:

- Minimize hospital return rates: Early follow up reduces the likelihood of readmission for patients with acute conditions.
- Strengthen care coordination: We improve dialog between a patient's primary care physician (PCP) and their ongoing care strategy team, ensuring a seamless transition.
- Boost patient contentment: Involving patients in their care process enhances their satisfaction and health outcomes.

TCS program strategy: bridging the gap in post-discharge care

Our TCS initiative is designed to aid in the transitional period immediately after hospital discharge, focusing on critical post-discharge follow-up appointments. Under our TCS program's strategy:

- We reach out to providers promptly to verify that each patient's post-discharge services and follow-up meetings are organized—or have been conducted—within seven days after leaving the hospital.
- Through this concerted effort, we anticipate a decline in patient readmissions, enriched conversations between patients and physicians, and consequently, higher patient satisfaction rates.

The involvement of all parties in post-discharge planning is essential for a patient's recovery cycle. Our TCS program embodies this commitment to collaborative care, leading to healthier outcomes and happier patients.
